

BANKING ON GROWTH

Technology Helps Vitex Optimize Client Resources

Vitex has been in business since 1995, helping community banks and large financial institutions to, simply put, work better. With that much responsibility, Vitex knew they would need a reliable source to handle any technology issues that could throw a curve ball in their day-to-day operations. That's why they turned to JH3 Technology Solutions.

Jay Harrill, President of JH3 Technology Solutions, started working with Vitex more than 10 years ago, beginning by providing block hours of service per month. As both organizations grew, their relationship evolved to include Managed Services, Desktop and Server Support, Hosted Exchange, Remote Assistance / Support, Diagnostic and General Troubleshooting, and much more.

Vitex has consultants all across the country working to execute the company's vision at the highest possible level. This makes it imperative to have all remote technology functions working at all times. Additionally, Vitex needs to know that all of their sensitive information regarding clients is protected and secure.

"We have been delighted with the support from JH3. Everything from handling the routine maintenance to the prompt assistance during disasters like a power line cut, JH3 has been there for us," notes Randy Roth, President & CEO.

"We particularly like the proactive recommendations we get to help us stay current in this rapidly changing technology world." Roth notes.

That's what the financial consulting experts at Vitex enjoy with their full service relationship with JH3 Technology Solutions. While Vitex focuses on resolving any client dilemma that comes their way, they can rest assured that all of their technology needs are being handle around the clock by JH3.

The relationship between Vitex and JH3 perfectly demonstrates how two companies can grow separately and together, both benefiting from each other's successes. Why not begin your longlasting relationship with JH3 today?
